

Audience

HCI Research Designers

metadata as design material slow technology

Research Question

In what ways could geolocation data be used as a design material in designing a tangible interface used for personal reflection?